

FAQs about the KRA-R New Administration Window

What is the new Kindergarten Readiness Assessment Revised administration window?

The administration window for the Kindergarten Reading Assessment Revised is not earlier than the first day of July of the school year and not later than the twentieth day of instruction of that school year. (ORC 3301.0715)

How are instructional days defined?

An instructional day is any day that includes hours counted toward the minimum hours of operation for kindergarten.

Does a district administer the KRA-R to a child that enrolls in kindergarten after the 20th day of instruction?

Students that enroll after their school's or district's twentieth day of instruction do not have to be assessed.

If a district does a staggered start or transition days for kindergarten, when does the first day of instruction begin? Does it start on the first day our district is in session?

Each district will determine the first day of instructional days for their kindergarten classes. Staggered start days or transition days may or may not be considered instructional days.

Are districts required to complete the KRA-R on students that enroll after the first day of instruction but before the twentieth day?

The KRA-R must be administered to any student who enrolls during the administration window.

Can a district count the number of instructional days from the student's start date?

This is a local decision; however, the KRA-R cannot be administered after Nov. 1. Districts are only required to administer the KRA-R to students who enroll by the district's 20th day of instruction for kindergarten students.
